

Maine Central Institute – Privacy Policy – 2020

Maine Central Institute maintains the following policies:

1. Any photograph, statement, or recording of any minor, used in connection with any marketing, website, or printed material will not include any personal identifiers.
 - a) Maine Central Institute has no control over press material (television, radio, newspapers, etc.) that is collected at a public event run by Maine Central Institute and over which Maine Central Institute has no control.
 - b) Maine Central Institute has no control over any media collected by or shared by other events or camp attendees or spectators and assumes no responsibility for said material
2. All personal information regarding participants is held in confidence.
 - a) Emergency and medical treatment information is collected and secured for all participants
 - b) This information is available to the program director and staff when participants are present at camps or other events where such information is required to be present. This information is not shared with anyone except as needed with camp or event staff in order to ensure a safe experience for the participation
 - c) This information is also tendered to any medical personnel who required to treat a participant.
 - d) Information on age, gender, and grade level are collected to serve as tools in providing programs that match these groups or in the development of programs that are more appealing to all sub groups. This information may also be used in the application for grants of other fundraising solicitations or reports. This information is not used for any other purpose.
3. Registration, attendance, or other material collected by Maine Central Institute will not be given, sold, or transferred to any other group.